Sorry. I wish I did. Unfortunately, my parents insisted that such things were not meant to be kept forever. Otherwise, I'd probably have every Miami Herald TV supplement published from 1985 to 2000!

4 Senate Hearings (Senate Foreign Relations Committee looks at US policy in Vietnam)

Were these the hearings that prompted Fred Friendly to resign as president of CBS News? (He was upset CBS wouldn't pre-empt its weekday morning programming to air them.) It's pretty surprising that NBC not only did pre-empt its weekday morning programming, but also aired it on a weekend. Did any of the hearings take place on the weekend?

Where are the listing for WNDT(WNET) ch. 13?

WNDT/13 was off the air on the weekends. That was probably the norm for educational stations back then.

Interesting to see Morecambe and Wise on there. I didn't realise they had a transatlantic audience.

Channel 25 has a show called 'Bullseye' at 1.30PM. Surely that wasn't the darts based game show we had in the UK around that time?

Interesting to see Morecambe and Wise on there. I didn't realise they had a transatlantic audience.

They did have very limited exposure in the U.S. A few stations (mostly PBS affiliates) aired their programs at this time, and the 1967 summer replacement "Picadilly Circus" was apparently a renamed British series. They certainly never got the exposure of Benny Hill or Monty Python.

Ah it seems they were completely different shows which happened to appear around the same time and share a name.

Re: Retro: Central Florida Saturday, March 3, 1973

re: WBDO

7 AM Archie's Fun House

7:30 Harlem Globetrotters

I believe that these were tape delayed from Sunday Mornings.

I'm not sure what time it was on ET, possibly 8-9am, but KNXT 2 in L.A. aired it from 7-8am Sundays.

re: WLCY

7 AM Curiosity Shop

Same with this show. It aired at 10am ET/PT on ABC, followed by Bullwinkle and Make a Wish.

On the west coast, NBC and ABC followed the Central time zone schedule, but CBS followed the Eastern time zone schedule (aired from 8am-2pm instead of 7am-1pm)

Thanks for the schedule.

Re: Retro: Central Florida Saturday, March 3, 1973

The two CBS shows did air 9-10 AM ET/8-9 AM

CT & PT on Sundays. Channel 44 carried "Archie's

Fun House" at 9 AM Sundays; Channel 11 carried

"Globetrotters" at 9:30.

Channels 9 and 40 carried "Curiosity Shop" Sundays

10-11 AM; it was aired on delay in Tampa/St. Pete.

This was the first year the Grammys would be on CBS, where it has remained ever since (three years later, ABC -- which originally had the Grammys -- would be the permanent TV home for the Oscars).

This was the first--and only--year the main ceremony was held in Nashville. The reason ABC bailed on the Grammys was they claimed Nashville could not attract non-country artists (probable translation: no way us bigshot types are going anywhere but NYC or LA). In order to fill that slot, ABC helped create the American Music Awards.

And after many decades on CBS, guess where the CMA Awards moved to in the 2000's? You guessed it...ABC!!!! (around that same time, CBS would snag the rival Academy of Country Music Awards from NBC)

Thanks, I think you are correct, but that was what The Seattle Times listed.

Also, I noticed that I left out the 6:30-7 pm slot for the network affiliates. Just for the record all three were local news in this slot, though KING5's offering was called "Top Story", which concentrated on just that. Didn't last very long.

For those who follow such things, my educated guess is the main anchor teams on Seattle TV news in late '86 were KOMO4-Jim Harriott/Kathy Goertzen, KING5-Mike James/Jean Enerson, and KIRO7-John Marler/Gary Justice, with Aaron Brown at 11. Of the above, Harriott and Goertzen are deceased, and the others are out of tv news, though Enerson does special reports for KING5.

Number of things to note:

--All three affiliates put local/syndie shows in the 9am slot, which definately wasn't the case in E. Washington.

--Interesting that Ch.13 did a lot of pre-empted daytime network shows, while Ch.11 didn't. Plus both stations having afternoon movies in 1986 is pretty odd.

--Was "Rangers" "Ranger Charlie and Roscoe"? (forest ranger with racoon puppet show?)

--Wonder why neither Ch.2 (CBC out of Vancouver) or Ch.12 (Indie out of Bellingham) weren't listed; I swear I saw those in some Seattle listings back then.

Hi installLSC,

My source was the Seattle Times TV page and they indeed did include 2 out of Van and 12 out of Bellingham, though it was on the right side of the listings along with HBO, Showtime, and ESPN. Yes, Seattle cable carried these channels, but I chose to stick with just the Seattle VHF's for this post, as anything else would have been mostly cable, which was not as prevalent as today.

I think both 11 and 13 were at the end of their afternoon movie stint, especially since Fox was coming in on 13, and there were many more syndication options for both.

I used to go to the Bellevue (WA) KCLS Library...a LOT, and pull off Seattle Times microfilm for Radio Discussions. If you look back in the archives for 2012/13, you'll see a lot of old microfilm listings from the 1980s and 90s. Anyways, I will say that 2 and 12 were in the Times in 1986. A couple years back, CHAN-8 (BCTV) Vancouver was included. TV Guide's Western Washington edition kept CHAN-8, and CKVU-21/10, and CHEK-6 up through the end of the small size version.

I miss doing that, but whenever I can hit the Downtown Yakima Library, I can get Yakima Herald microfilm, which included most of the Seattle stations in the '80s, KAYU Spokane, and surprisingly, CBC North! Yes...no CBUT on the listings, instead the Arctic feed, which was carried on C-Band.

Unless it was a different show, Simon & Simon reruns aired at 9AM weekdays on KIRO-7 in 1992-1993.

Re: Simon & Simon...Yep, same show, primetime in 1986, likely syndicated in '92. But 9 AM?, that is a bit weird.

Quick check on Wikipedia, and it claims TV1 was the only channel in Denmark until the late 80s. Is that true? And how well could you get neighboring countries channels in Denmark?

I don't know, but I can well believe it. The 4 channels we had in the UK at this point was actually quite high by European standards. Ireland only had 2 channels until the 1990s. and I believe Norway only had a single channel for a lot of years.

As for getting other countries channels, I would certainly expect a lot of the country could get either German or Swedish TV, although \I seem to recall Sweden was another place where TV choice was pretty dire well into the 90s.

Retro Challenge: Stations affected by the 1994-96 affiliation switches

Hey, it's been awhile since I posted here, but I have a challenge for some of the posters. I'm looking for schedules for stations affected by what Wikipedia calls the "1994 United States broadcast TV realignment", particularly those that switched affiliations as a result of the New World affiliation deal with Fox, the purchase of the Burnham Broadcasting stations by SF Broadcasting and other resulting major affiliation deals.

The listings in question must consist of sample weekday and weekend listings for the affected stations within one month prior to and after the switches in each market (listings for stations on the day before and the day of each market's switches are preferred if available), and only includes stations that changed (or even in a few cases, like with KTVK, completely lost) network partners due to the deals.

will be interested to see if anyone is able to comply with this, since most of us have somewhat haphazard collections of TV Guides and the like to reference, and the odds are pretty slim that we'd have two issues in the same market spaced that close together.

And some of us stopped collecting past 1990, too.

But I'd be interested to see such comparisons as well, if only to see what (if any) syndicated shows got moved around as a result as well. For that reason, I'd like to suggest that if any independents were involved in any market's switch, the appropriate listings be included, since there would obviously be a significant amount of syndication movement in such a scenario.

There's a schedule from Atlanta on this board from December 12, 1994. That's the day after WAGA/ch. 5 switched from CBS to Fox, WATL/ch. 36 from Fox to independent, and WGNX/ch. 46 (now WGCL) from independent to CBS. I'll try to dig up something from at least a month prior.

I posted a schedule here last month involving the Milwaukee switches--it took place the weekend of December 10-11, 1994 (the switch made official Sunday the 11th). I found the listings through the Milwaukee Sentinel via Google News Archive; I went back to check the programming listings from a day or two prior, it looked like WDJT (the station that would affiliate with CBS) was carrying some CBS shows prior to the switch being made official, most notably "Late Show with David Letterman".

In Atlanta that September, WAGA bumped The Price Is Right in favor of Jerry Springer, and the entire CBS Saturday morning line-up in favor of syndicated fare. WVEU/channel 69 (now CW's WUPA) picked up Price (CBS's Saturday shows remained blacked out) and around that time, CBS announced they would buy channel 69 and size it up as the new Atlanta affiliate. But when CBS reps saw the station's threadbare facilities, they reneged on the purchase and continued to pursue other stations. In late November, WGNX (WGCL) agreed to affiliate with them. WUPA is now, ironically, owned by CBS after the Paramount Stations Group/Viacom divestiture.

I have the TV supplement from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch for the weekend of August 6, 1995, the weekend that KTVI and KDNL swapped affiliations. KDNL bought a number of color advertisements in the supplement promoting the switch, one of which was an insert that included a program grid for all the network affiliates in St. Louis. KTVI's only ad was less than a half-page which simply promoted the station's new Fox prime-time line-up. KDNL was also a secondary UPN affiliate, as St. Louis did not have a full-time affiliate for the network. KDNL's secondary UPN affiliation continued alongside the primary ABC affiliation until 1998.

The TV supplement starts its listings on Sunday the 6th, and the network switch took place early Monday (the 7th) morning. Regrettably, I do not have any listings for the previous Friday, so I can't give you a comparison of weekday listings (which I'm sure would be more interesting). I posted the schedule for all the St. Louis broadcast stations (except WHSL, which aired primarily HSN programming) for August 6th and 7th, 1995 here:

<http://www.radiodiscussions.com/show...etwork-swap%29> . Unlike some of the other stations switching to Fox around this period, I don't recall KTVI getting preemption happy prior to the switch.

While the network swap in August of 1995 was the result of the corporate deal between Fox and New World, KTVI and ABC had not had the coziest of relationships in the years prior to the swap. At least a couple of the KTVI-ABC dust-ups made the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in the late 1980s and early '90s. Although a quick internet search turned up nothing, here's what I remember:

In the late 1980s, ABC was growing more and more concerned that KTVI was unable to pull its local newscasts out of a distant third place behind KSDK and KMOV. It's also possible that ABC network programming was not performing as well on KTVI as it was on most other ABC affiliates, but I can't remember that being specifically referenced. While ABC was pressuring KTVI to improve, KTVI fueled the fire by canceling its 6PM local newscast at some point in 1989, and replacing it with "Geraldo." As I recall, it was at this point that ABC had at least some informal talks with KPLR about taking the St. Louis ABC affiliation.

KPLR was a successful independent station (it became a WB affiliate in 1995) that had turned down the Fox affiliation at that network's start in 1986 (the Fox affiliation went to KDNL). KPLR apparently was also not interested in an ABC affiliation in 1989 or '90. While I don't remember specifics being mentioned as to why KPLR and ABC could not work out a deal, there were several issues that may have been potential roadblocks.

At the time, KPLR was the flagship station of the St. Louis Cardinals Television Network, and also carried St. Louis Blues hockey games. Carrying all those games would have likely caused numerous network preemptions that ABC would not have to deal with if the network remained aligned with KTVI. It's possible that ABC asked KPLR to abandon its sports affiliations as a condition of becoming an ABC affiliate, and KPLR was not interested in that.

Also, while KPLR did operate a news department and had a weeknight newscast, the station did not do news to nearly the level of the Big 3 affiliates in St. Louis. KPLR management may have realized that even with a major news department expansion and adding newscasts to the typical network affiliate time periods, it might take years to catch up to KSDK and KMOV, let alone overtake them, and ABC might end up disappointed. This is all speculation on my part, of course.

The second KTVI-ABC dust-up that I'm aware of occurred in 1991. KTVI had acquired or was acquiring the local rights to "The Arsenio Hall Show." In addition, Arsenio Hall and Paramount (Arsenio's syndicator) were about to introduce a companion show to Arsenio called "The Party Machine with Nia Peeples," which was meant to be aired right after Arsenio. KTVI's initial plan was to air Arsenio at 10:30 (or 10:35), Nia Peeples at 11:30, followed by "Nightline" at midnight. However, ABC had made a rule several years prior stating that ABC affiliates could not delay "Nightline" by more than an hour, and if an affiliate refused to air "Nightline" by at least 12:30E/11:30C, the affiliate could not air the show at all. ABC affiliates such as KMBC in Kansas City and KSAT in San Antonio were granted exceptions because those stations had aired "Nightline" at midnight since the program's inception. For a brief time, there was some question as to whether "Nightline" would continue to air in St. Louis, as KTVI was initially steadfast about running Arsenio and Nia Peeples back-to-back (if KTVI would not cooperate, ABC likely would have at least tried to get "Nightline" cleared on KPLR or KDNL). However, KTVI relented and scheduled "Nightline" at 11:30, between "The Arsenio Hall Show" and "The Party Machine with Nia Peeples," which ended up being aired at midnight.

ABC approached KPLR again in 1994 when it was announced that KTVI would be dropping ABC in favor of Fox in 1995, but by that time, KPLR was committed to the new WB network.

Interesting to see in the linked post that KTVI apparently didn't have a 9:00 p.m. newscast when it joined Fox, a la KTBC and KHON. Which apparently means that KDFW was the only Argyle station that switched to Fox under its agreement with New World that carried a prime time newscast upon first joining the network.

I just stumbled across a St. Louis Edition of TV Guide that I happen to have from July 15, 1995, less than a month before the KTVI-KDNL switch. I'll post a weekday schedule from that issue shortly.

I have a set of Detroit listings of when WJBK switched to Fox, when WKBD reverted to being an Independent, and when WGPR joined CBS.

Here is the Atlanta switch, the first from the day before (Dec. 10, 1994) and the day after (Dec.

11) This is from the Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Channels 14 and 63 were omitted except where noted.

I missed getting the Sunday overnight line-up, but this was the two days of change in a nutshell.

Quick correction: WSB's airing of Reboot at 7 AM Sundays was a delay from 9:30 AM Saturday, not 9 AM.

Don't forget there were reasons why the Denver switch went the way it did as well

CBS BUYS KCNC 4 FROM NBC

This move left NBC without a home & KMGH 7 without a network HOWEVER KMGH balked at the NBC affiliation because it wasn't willing to yield to NBC's requirement that [i]The Tonight Show/i] be carried at 10:35 PM MT (They opted to stick with Cheers reruns instead)

The station also declined because it was more interested in the ABC affiliation (Which would put it in line with the rest of the McGraw Hill stations across the nation)

NBC MOVES TO KUSA 9

After receiving word that KMGH 7 wasn't interested in the NBC affiliation, NBC was then forced to start courting Gannett-owned (Now TENGATV-owned) KUSA 9. After some negotiations, KUSA 9 & ABC parted ways, which paved the way for them to pursue the NBC affiliation

As for the reason why ABC & KUSA 9 parted ways, there are some who believe it was due to some disparaging remarks made by KUSA anchor Ed Sardella to ABC's David Brinkley who was allowed to appear on the station during its coverage of Pope John Paul II's visit during World Youth Day in 1993. Not sure if that alone led to the loss of ABC (One would think it wouldn't given the station's LONG heritage history with the network) or not but that's what some believe

Gannett itself was non-chalant in the network KUSA 9 was affiliated with as they're one of the few broadcasters EVEN TODAY who are on speaking terms with just about all the Big networks (Except maybe Fox as Gannett/TENGATV doesn't own one to my knowledge). Of course, they would've preferred to stay with ABC rather than get dragged into the fray that was the Big Switch but they weren't gonna make a big deal out of it by bending over backwards to keep ABC if it truly wanted to move to KMGH 7 either

Cheers & 73

I remember CBS and Fox switched in Dallas Fox went from to 33 to 4 and Cbs went from 4 to 11 in 95

Here in Boston, there's gonna be a switch this December as WHDH-TV loses its NBC affiliation! Nobody knows where it's gonna go, but come Christmas and New Year's, get ready for some upheaval here in New England.

My bet is it'll go WFXT 25 as NBC will make Cox an offer it can't refuse

Meanwhile Fox will make Sunbeam an offer IT can't refuse either as they'll buy WHDH, WLVI
AND WSVN down in Miami. Once the sale is complete, Fox will move MyNet to WLVI, leaving CBS O&O WSBK with the CW affiliation

I just can't see NBC committing RATINGS SUICIDE in Boston by moving to Channel 60

JMO....

Cheers & 73

Most likely not WSVN. Fox wants stations where there's an NFC presence and Miami is an AFC city. Word is they're trying to swap their Orlando FL O&O (WOFL) for WVUE in New Orleans.

I think if NBC has to move it would move to ch. 25 and Fox will move to ch. 7 and take its mini network My Network TV to the soon to be ex CW affiliate WLVI 56 therefore creating My56. Look for Maury, Jerry Springer and Steve Wilkos all move to Fox 7 Boston after the morning news at 10am.

Umm I think this is what I pretty much said above

What was the purpose for REPEATING it ??

Cheers & 73

10:30 - Dionne and Friends

Was this actually an infomercial for The Psychic Friends Network? ;D

I think it was but the listing didn't say.

By this time, TV Guide was listing all infomercials either as "Paid Programming" or "Commercial Programs", so it can go either way.

Channel 57 was resting I Love Lucy, Andy Griffith, Beverly hillbillies, Honeymooners, All In The Family. They had just been repossessed by creditors late in 1989 and Grant Broadcasting folded losing their 3 stations at the time. Creditors took ownership under the name Combined Broadcasting. THEN, they sold 2 of the stations to UPN's Paramount division (rather than United) selling their weakest station to Univision in Chicago and selling the programming to the station losing Univision programs. Channel 57 eventually became owned by CBS in buyout deals in 2001.

Lucy and Andy weren't seen again on WGBS until late 1991 I think. Of course Andy ran on there until 1999 and Lucy until 2001.

I don't ever remember seeing Beverly Hillbillies on WGBS because I was born in 1988 so it was probably on there before my time.

Honeymooners I remember it was on there until like 2003 I think. All in the Family until probably around 2005.

Does anyone know if Archie Bunker's Place was ever in reruns in Philly prior to running on WPSG from September 1998 to October 2000?

"Dionne and Friends" was a short-lived music and variety series hosted by Dionne Warwick. It was not related in any way to the Psychic Friends Network.

And quite a bit of wrestling and religious shows

WKBS-TV 48: December 4, 1982

Here's the rundown of WKBS' broadcast day for Saturday December 4, 1982. WKBS was one of the five stations owned and operated by the Chicago-based Field Communications.

A shame that former independent stations are now owned or affiliated with networks. While that schedule above isn't all that great, it beats the current offerings on MYTV or Ion.

For me, the highlight of this schedule is the series premiere of Inspector Gadget, as I used to love watching that show on Nickelodeon growing up.

Does anyone know what time it was on on WKBD, WLVI, and KBHK on December 4, 1982? I know it was on 6:00 p.m. CST on WFLD-TV 32.

Please post WKBS listings for Sunday 12/5/1982 and Wednesday 12/8/1982.

Here, as requested.

Well, DDR TV seemed somewhat acceptable. At least there was no Der Shwarze Kanal that day :P

I imagine at the time, it would be in the middle of The CBS Late Movie (in this case, "Are You in the House Alone?"). As its first listing was not until 3AM, I imagine the station piggybacks on one of the other Chicago channels (such as WFLD), after they leave the air for the night, similar to WCBS New York filling in for WPIX, and WKID Miami filling in for WCIX.

7 CBS News Nightwatch

This was actually the "CBS Early Morning News"... "TV Guide" simply listed it as "CBS News." KHQA carried "Nightwatch" at the time, but it ended at 5AM.

Anyone know for sure when listings for WRSP-55 Springfield (which originally signed on as WBHW in 1979, then became WRSP around 1982 with a substantial power/coverage similar to that of WICS) and cable-only listings for KPLR-11 were added to the Western Illinois edition?

And i wonder how many commercial breaks that STER in Holland get onto the 3 Nederland channels?

At least after the Journaal and from 1988 between all programmes as well (Except for Sundays, Good Friday, Remembrance Day and Christmas Day, although that ban was lifted in 1994)

RTL 4 did not air commercials on Sunday until 1992

Live with Regis and Kathie Lee came on 11, I thought it was always on 4.

Kind of odd for a superstation to air Live with Regis and Kathie Lee, even before syndex (which came into effect in 1990 I think). I wonder if some markets in Texas didn't clear Live! at this time

Retro: This Week in TV Guide, May 2, 1981 - MSP Edition

This week, Cathy Lee Crosby headlines That's Incredible (and though she might not be incredible, but she's pretty good), the horses run for the roses at Churchill Downs, Dan Rather gets bad news about his popularity, public broadcasting uses the auction gavel to raise money, and more!

<http://www.itsabouttv.com/2014/05/th...ay-2-1981.html>

As always your comments, positive as well as negative, are most welcome.

This week's listing comes from Friday, May 8. Until I saw these listings, I'd completely forgotten about the old John Davidson show, which was supposed to groom him as Mike Douglas' replacement. Didn't work, did it? And look at that – an early TV appearance by Dr. Laura! Let's see what else was on TV the day I celebrated my 21st birthday.

A rare night off from sports for KMSP during the spring of 1981. KMSP was the OTA home of the Minnesota Twins and the Minnesota North Stars. At this time the North Stars were on a run to the Stanley Cup Finals and during the period of this TV Guide the Stanley Cup Semi-Final series was going on. However on this night the series was off as the teams were traveling back from Calgary with Minnesota leading the best of 7 series 3-2. (They would win the series the next night)

Retro: This Week in TV Guide, November 4, 1967 - MN State Edition

This week, Stuart Whitman makes his bid for stardom (hint: it didn't work), Public Broadcasting breaks into a laboratory, Sullivan vs. The Palace, and we make soup!

Merv Griffin was on for only 25 minutes on WCCO? That seems strange, considering that he was usually seen in either a one-hour or 90-minute format, depending on the station.

Also, CBS had a five-minute newscast at 11:25 AM (CT), following "Love Of Life"; IIRC, Joseph Benti anchored. Douglas Edwards did the 2:25 (CT) newscast, moving to the midday one after "To Tell The Truth" was canceled in 1968.

D'oh! My bad - 'CCO didn't carry the Hillbillies until that afternoon. I just went a little crazy with the cut and past - thanks for picking that up.

I think I know why Harry Reasoner was listed as substituting for Walter Cronkite on the "CBS Evening News" that evening: That week, the first Saturn 5 moon rocket was due to be launched from Cape Canaveral, and Cronkite was at the Cape to cover the launch (which eventually took place on the morning of November 6th) and anchor a live broadcast of the launch for CBS.

At the time that week's TV Guide was published, CBS probably didn't know the exact launch date, so they probably listed Reasoner on the "Evening News" for several nights that week.

Thus, Reasoner probably hosted the news from New York for several days that week, with Cronkite doing cut-ins from the Cape.

I think you're absolutely right. There's a note at the start of the programming section that, depending on the weather and other technical issues, regular programming might be preempted for the launch. So having Reasoner on the news makes perfect sense!

By the way, you can find on You Tube CBS coverage of that first Saturn 5 test launch with Cronkite's excited description (the rocket's ascent created shock waves which caused part of the roof of CBS' anchor trailer to cave-in; CBS and the other networks would build sturdier anchor studios at the press site near the launch pad for future Saturn 5 launches).

Just wondering if KGLO(Channel 3 out of Mason City) was not in this edition.

Retro: This Week in TV Guide, September 16, 1967 - MN State Edition

Real life intrudes. Neil Hickey looks at whether TV coverage of riots makes things worse - and if you think it's bad in 1967, wait until you see the next year... Also, a look back at a time when the television premiere of an award-winning movie was a big deal, the new season continues to roll out, Sullivan vs. The Palace, the week in sports, and more!

10:30p Movie – “The Last Command”

Here's something that will tilt you towards Sullivan - according to the TV Changes section in the Boston Globe that day, The Doors were added to the show. And The Smothers Brothers substituted Mickey Rooney, Bette Davis and The Who for George Burns and Herman's Hermits.

Boston and Providence TV stations aired the same football games, starting at 2p Eastern.

Yes - The Doors would definitely tip the balance toward Sullivan! Interesting substitution for the Smothers Brothers; I wonder what the rest of the story is, if there is one?

My guess (and it's only a guess): For some reason, the show's producers or CBS simply substituted the episode with The Who, Bette Davis, and Mickey Rooney for the one with George Burns and Herman's Hermits.

At the time, Burns was still trying to establish himself as a "solo act" after the death of his wife Gracie Allen (his greatest fame would come as a solo act in the 1970's and 1980's). I'm pretty sure that Herman's Hermits' last big hit had already occurred by this time.

Also: Wasn't this the "Smothers" show the first time that The Who destroyed their instruments at the end of their performance?? It later became a trademark at the end of their concerts.

As Mitchell H. pointed out in his blog, very seldom were Minnesota Twins' home games broadcast on local TV, despite their being in a tight pennant race.

I believe that in 1967, only four or five home games were likely telecast, probably the home opener, Holidays, and maybe a home game against Baltimore, the defending World Series champs.

I would think the final two games of the season in Boston were televised back to the Twin Cities (but if my memory serves me correct, the Twins were eliminated when they lost on Saturday, Boston clinched at least a tie for the pennant when they beat Minnesota on Sunday, and Detroit lost later that afternoon to California, which gave Boston the pennant).

Close - the Twins were actually eliminated on Sunday, the last day. The Sox wound up beating both the Twins and Tigers by one game (with the White Sox only three games behind), which means that the Twins and Sox entered the final day tied - the loser would be eliminated. As I recall, those games were televised back to the Twin Cities by Channel 11, and I came across a note not long ago that suggested NBC also televised the Sunday game - fairly unprecedented at the time.

Was that the greatest pennant race ever? Now, with the wild-cards and the divisions, we'll never see anything like it again.

The WHDH broadcast of the Sunday game is available as a bonus disc on the "Impossible to Forget" documentary DVD. It's the oldest complete game color tape in existence. It does not have commercials, however.

Too bad.

I wanted to see the 1968 Plymouths, hear the Narragansett Beer "Hi, Neighbor" jingle, and the Atlantic gasoline spots with the new red, white and blue "Atlantic" logo.

It's bizarre. No advertising in the stadium at all, only a Jimmy Fund sign in right. No drop-in promo mentions for upcoming programming. There are only 3 commercial drop-ins - Atlantic, Narragansett, and White Owl cigars, and only one of those an inning. Fortunately the baseball makes up for it all.

In regard to the Vikings not airing on WCCO despite being from Minnesota. In those days (and before the 1973 season) ALL home games of a team were blacked out in the home teams market. And since the Vikings were at home that day the game was blacked out in Minneapolis.

About as good a kiddie lineup as ABC ever had:

09:00a Linus the Lionhearted (color)

09:30a Peter Potamus (color)

10:00a Bullwinkle (color)

10:30a Discovery '67 (color)

11:00a Stingray (color)

(Actually, I think Stingray may have been syndicated, but still, what kid could resist that lineup? Discovery was a fun "educational" show, much better than today's bland E/I content.

What did the N stand for?

In the pre-cable 1970s, in the Cincinnati/Dayton weekly TV Guide, there was a channel listed called 4N. It was actually Channel 4 in Indianapolis, WTTV, then an independent station and now the CBS affiliate. With a little finagling, I could pick up the grainy signal on our upstairs television and occasionally watched it. The signal's origin was 100 miles away from me.

TV Guide never explained why this channel was included in the southwest Ohio edition. But what puzzled me was this: What did the "N" stand for?

The "N" stood for Indianapolis, and since that edition likely carried 4 from Columbus, that was the distinction. WTTV was carried on a lot of cable systems (as was WXIX) fed by microwave; those were the 2 regional superstations of that day. "I" would have made the channel look like "41".

Thank you! I've wondered about that for ages!

It stood for "N-dianapolis," of course.

Your TV guide was probably not "pre-cable" in some towns in the area, although WTTV was viewable in some towns along the Indiana/Ohio border over the air, with a good antenna. We had cable in southern Indiana going back to the early '60s. I have to guess that it was available in parts of Ohio back then as well.

WTTV was a regional cable channel going back to the early '70s, before satellites. The reason, of course, was the IU and Purdue basketball games they aired in that era. WGN Channel 9 Chicago was another one, probably shown in TV Guide as "9C," as opposed to Cincinnati's "9."

Presumably the southwest Ohio edition of TV guide was distributed to places in the Cincy market like Versailles and Batesville, IN? These towns should have had decent B-grade coverage from WTTV.

The TV Guide edition in the area I grew up in, the Western Illinois edition, did something similar for these channels (with black on white bullets).

WGN-9 Chicago: "9C" (even after Syndex and the separate Chicago/national versions starting in 1991)

WTTW-11 Chicago (PBS): "11C"

KPLR-11 St. Louis (Ind., later WB): "11S"

KIIN-12 Iowa City (PBS): "12W" (Io-W-a)

WFLD-32 Chicago (Fox): "32C"

And even though KIIN's former analog signal was seen OTA in the western fringe of Illinois, those stations were grouped with the cable channels.

It's possible that the Western Illinois edition might have once referred to WTBS as "17A" (Atlanta, GA), but am not exactly sure about this.

The old statewide TV inserts of the Des Moines Register (in their separate "Eastern Iowa" and "Western Iowa" versions) were prolific in the use of alphanumeric channel designations for many of the non-Des Moines stations. Examples: "8M" (WQAD-8 Moline), "8L" (WKBT-8 LaCrosse, WI) to distinguish from plain "8" (KCCI Des Moines); "7H" (KHQA Hannibal/Quincy), "7W" (KWWL Cedar Rapids/Waterloo). In at least the Eastern Iowa version, the letter designation referred to the first letter of the station's COL. (However, in the Western Iowa version the Register might have distinguished the Omaha stations as "3N", "6N," and "7N" for "Nebraska").

Unfortunately, thanks to the jerks running the country today, TV is screwed up, with nothing but propaganda!

Actually, there are plenty of soaps and other non-propaganda shows. But the newscasts are either controlled by the government or too afraid of the government.

That is among the many unpleasant results of Bolivarian socialism.

Wow....taking me way back to my days as a tot in a playpen here.

I do remember watching the pre-Sesame Street lineup on WQED (What's New, Friendly Giant, and the ubiquitous Mr. Rogers Neighborhood). And all of the instructional programs they would air in the afternoons, intended for use in schools.

I also remember that late morning lineup on KDKA with the Beverly Hillbillies and Andy Griffith. And that WTAE produced a local version of Romper Room.

(Years later in high-school I had a friend whose older brother had dated Miss Molly from the local version of Romper Room. We had a pool running on whether or not sheum.....satisfied on a first date. Never got an answer on that from the brother)

Austria was one of the last european countries to introduce commercial television, it didn't launch until 1997. By that point even many ex communist countries had commercial TV.

I'm not sure how many stations from Germany and Switzerland made it across the border into Austria, mind you, although the mountains can't have helped.....

If there are any other stations that have aired The Super Mario Bros. Super Show and is not listed here, please reply to this thread.

Here in Los Angeles, and nowhere else, it was followed by King Koopa's Kool Kartoons.

Evansville probably was able to get it on cable from WTTV (maybe the same for South Bend)

In the early 90's, WCBS' relay channel returned to the air as low-power W53AA, mostly ethnic.

Also, I believe WABC's relay was channel 66, though it may not have been active at this point.

W53AA was a Korean TV channel in 1993.

The MLB players strike that year started five days later from this date, on June 12th, and lasted 50 days. After the strike, they went to the split-season format...1981 was the last time the Yankees made the playoffs again until the mid-90s.

Did they have a All-Star Game that year?

Yes, about a week after the strike ended. IIRC, all the teams played a few exhibition games, then the All-Star Game was played -- in late July -- and the regular season restarted around Aug. 1.

WCBS 2/53-CBS New York

9:00 Tony Awards (hosts Ellen Burstyn and Richard Chamberlain)

The entire 1981 Tony Awards broadcast (except commercials) has been posted on YouTube:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mEbjt1hSzI>

At least there was a world series that year unlike the 1994-95 strike which cancelled the world series that year.

Yes, about a week after the strike ended. IIRC, all the teams played a few exhibition games, then the All-Star Game was played -- in late July -- and the regular season restarted around Aug. 1.

ASG was played August 9, season re-started the 10th; I believe the strike officially ended on the 1st, teams played a few exhibitions for a week.

11 AM Bob Braun

This is the first time I had heard of Bob Braun's Cincinnati based show airing on TV in Tennessee.

Interesting thing about Bob Braun I had heard recently from a buddy of mine who works at Direct TV. Back in the early 80's he was working at Washington, DC's WDCA-TV channel 20. WDCA had actually wanted to air Bob's show only to get a "thanks but no thanks" from Braun and from what he was telling me WDCA wasn't the first station to get turned down from wanting to air Bob Braun either. He was telling me that Pittsburgh's WPXI, Buffalo's WIVB plus a station in Boston (he thinks it was WSBK)..all of them got the "NO" from Bob Braun. Dittos with Harrisonburg, VA's WHSV-TV who wanted to air Braun at 9am weekdays replacing Jim Bakker.

Makes me wonder what made a market "favorable" or "unfavorable" to Braun and his staff?

It wasn't as much a favorable or unfavorable status but keeping it "local" as the show was very Cincinnati. The attitude might have been to keep the show distribution within a few hours of Crosley Square. Knoxville, Huntington/Charleston, Louisville and a return to Indy on WTTV was the extent of the network and a couple of the old WLW network station (Columbus and Dayton).

Maybe so but Bob's show I believe did air for a time in Raleigh, NC. Not exactly "nearby" to Cincinnati. For Braun to turn down Pittsburgh is a bit of a surprise to me since some of that market does go into Ohio. Did Bob Braun ever air on TV in Cleveland, Youngstown or Toledo? Of all the listings that have appeared on this site from those markets, I don't recall ever seeing Bob Braun's show being listed.

9:30 Love, Sidney (controversial sitcom with

Tony Randall as a gay man who lets a woman and daughter live in his house)

"Family Ties" would premiere in this time slot three weeks later to begin its seven-year run.

Braun's show did air briefly on WLFL in Raleigh, in the show's later years when it was called "Braun & Co." His main markets, as pointed out, were Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Indianapolis, Louisville, Lexington, Charleston/Huntington, Nashville, and Knoxville. At one time Multimedia, which owned the stations in Cincinnati, Knoxville, and Nashville that carried Braun, wanted to put the show into national syndication; Braun refused, saying he preferred to keep the show as an outlet for local and regional talent.

I've never heard of any stations in northern Ohio carrying his show. I am surprised, though, that WBIR pre-empted "The Price Is Right" (WBIR didn't switch from CBS to NBC until 1988) in favor of Braun, rather than air him at 10 AM instead of the two CBS sitcoms airing in that hour.

As far as I know, Braun never aired in the markets mentioned, however, Ruth Lyons, predecessor to Braun, aired a NBC national version of her show on WNBK-4 in Cleveland in 1951-52..

A side thought: I always wonder if Crosley had ever considered, or been in the running originally to put Cleveland's WXEL-9 on the air before Empire Coil Co. ultimately did in December 1949.. Almost certainly Lyons and Braun along with Paul Dixon, would have aired on WXEL- Cleveland for years.. Would probably have changed the dynamics of the Cleveland Market. With Crosley being sold to AVCO, etc.. Storer might never have come to Cleveland..

Paul Dixon had an afternoon DuMont music show that aired on WXEL/WJW, and WKBN Youngstown..

Expanding on the above thoughts- The call letters on Cleveland's original Channel 9 might have been something like WLW-K.. To keep the "Crosley style" call letters.. If Storer is never involved, By 1955 Channel 5 and 8 don't necessarily swap networks so WLW-K Channel 8 remains ABC through the years and 5 CBS... If Gannett eventually owns the station then Gannett doesn't own WKYC.. So WKYC is sold by NBC to someone else..

I know that's kind of out there.. But fun to speculate what might have been..

Even though it had been years since I have seen "Love, Sydney", but I am pretty sure the "gay angle" only applied to the pilot and not the series as the producers downplayed, if not overlooked all together the fact that Sydney was gay. And yes this was another program that was cancelled where Jerry Falwell took credit by saying it was he who had the show cancelled. NBC would later prove that to be a lie.

It was also around the time of these listings I do believe when Norfolk's long time rock station WQRK-FM "Q104 and a half " announced they would be giving up rock and roll, only to have Virginia's other TV preacher...Pat Robertson taking credit for that format change. Did WQRK go religious to please Pat? Ah no...they became WNVZ "Z104" sporting a "Hot Hits" CHR format. Egg was all over Pat Robertson's face over that one Anyway after the Love, Sydney & WQRK-FM "credits", even though both Falwell & Robertson's programs continued to air in Virginia for years at the same time most of Virginia's radio & TV stations did keep some "distance" between their stations and Falwell & Robertson as far as their politics were concerned and whenever rumors pop up about the "Falwell Influence" or "Pat's Influence" and their programming decisions.....they tend to get "nasty" about it.

Thanks for the reminder. The gay angle on "Love, Sidney" was played down after the pilot; you would have had difficulty guessing Sidney's sexual orientation (but not to worry, Tony Randall was straight in real life, married to the same woman for many years, as I recall).

Back to Bob Braun/Ruth Lyons: NBC wanted Ms. Lyons to move her show to New York. She was holding her own well against the "Love Of Life"/"Search For Tomorrow"/"Guiding Light" block on CBS, and NBC felt that advertisers would be even more receptive to her show if she got it out of Cincinnati. Nothing doing, she said, she was a Cincinnati native and had no desire to leave. End of network show, but the local "50/50 Club" continued on WLWT and its sister stations (except WLWA Atlanta) until 1967, at which point she retired and Braun, who had been increasingly visible as co-host, took over the show.

In the '50s Braun was a regular on Dotty Mack's ABC musical-variety show (she pantomimed the latest hits, and I think--somebody from Ohio correct me on this--her boyfriend ran WCPO and insisted that ABC take her show). Another regular, Colin Male, was the second "court reporter" on "Divorce Court" after Bill Welsh.

Eve though Tony was married to the same woman for 50 years (ending with her death in 1992), Randall still had that eye for younger chicks. Actually his second wife whom he married a few years after the death of his first was 50 years younger (Tony was 75..she was 25). That marriage actually raised a few eyebrows much like Martha Raye's marriage to Mark Harris (Martha was 75 and in very poor health..Mark was 42).

But going back to the subject of Bob Braun...I wonder if there were other similar shows like Braun's where though syndicated.it was only to a handful of markets?

Back in the 90s I can remember hearing about where Denver's KUSA (when they were still with ABC) was planning on syndicating a talk show with Tom "The Troubleshooter" Martino and Paula Woodward to a handful of stations in the Mountain time zone including Salt Lake City, Albuquerque, Casper and throughout Colorado but I don't believe that ever got past the talking stage. Looking back I think this was nothing more than to rebuff the rumors that Woodward would be leaving Denver since at the time there were a LOT of rumors (some of which was even reported in the press) about how there was an effort to woo Paula Woodward away from KUSA in order to start a nationwide "David Horowitz/Fight Back" style talk-information program. That program never happened either.

Back in the early 80's, Norfolk's WVEC-TV I believe did offer "Tidewater Evening" (a 60 minute live talk show with Joe Flanigan) to the other markets in Virginia such as Richmond and even a few in West Virginia and Salisbury, Maryland...alas..WVEC found no takers and "Tidewater Evening" only lasted a year on WVEC before that station cancelled it in favor of Wheel of Fortune and another game show.

Re: Retro: Knoxville/Chattanooga Wednesday, September 1, 1982

I seem to recall that Tony became a father at age 78...naturally, and not by adoption.

WRCB always carried Tom Snyder. Eventually it picked up Letterman as well. But the station has a history of caution when it comes to late-night programming; it carried The 700 Club instead of Saturday Night Live for about two years, finally picking up SNL around 1977.

Other than various wrestling shows and Arthur Smith I can't think right offhand of shows with regional syndication; I'm not sure if "Light Unto My Path," which was produced at WRAL Raleigh, was seen outside the South, and I don't recall "Mull's Singing Convention" airing outside Chattanooga, Knoxville, and Nashville. On second thought, one that comes to mind is "Eyes Of Texas," which I recall airing in Houston, San Antonio, and Austin when I lived out there; I think it eventually added Dallas, but in the late '70s that market had its own similar show: "4 Country Reporter" (on KDFW), later "8 Country Reporter" (on WFAA).

I remember picking up WBOY-12 Clarksburg, West Virginia via DX from Canton, Ohio and seeing "Mull's Singing Convention" on there so it was on at least one West Virginia station, possibly more..

Re: Retro: Knoxville/Chattanooga Wednesday, September 1, 1982

Channel 61 WRIP was one wierd station. It seemed to be a very weak independent from 1974 to about 1978. Just as you think it could not get worse, by the summer of 1981, the station had mostly unusual religious shows that appeared to be locally produced with a few very low budget secular shows mixed in. I cannot see why as the only independent station, that this station was so badly run. Its run as if its a fourth independent station and there are three others.

Anyhow, I would like to see retro schedules with this station of the following:

1. Weekdays and weekends fall of 1979
2. Weekdays and Weekends fall of 1980
3. Saturday in May of 1981
4. Weekdays and weekends fall of 1981
5. Weekends Summer 1982
6. Weekdays and Weekends October of 1982
7. Weekdays and Weekends April of 1983 (by then WDSI)
8. Weekdays and Weekends October 1983.

At the same time, maybe post it with a retro Atlanta schedule.

I actually have a TV Guide from Atlanta from July of 1984 with WDSI included. At that point, they were still an also ran but at least they were mediocre and getting better.

Thanks

Channel 61 WRIP was one wierd station. It seemed to be a very weak independent from 1974 to about 1978. Just as you think it could not get worse, by the summer of 1981, the station had mostly unusual religious shows that appeared to be locally produced with a few very low budget secular shows mixed in. I cannot see why as the only independent station, that this station was so badly run. Its run as if its a fourth independent station and there are three others.

Remember that independent stations in markets below the Top 30 or 35 were pretty rare until the late seventies -- and independent stations in markets as small as Chattanooga were not common until the early eighties. So part of the reason that this station may have been badly run is because it was on a very tight budget and was almost certainly losing money.

Let us not forget about the "Mouth of the South", Ted Turner. Who cares about Channel 61 when you have WTCG/WTBS on cable.

Yes, before 1980, independent stations even below the top 30 were rare. The few I knew of such as KVVU 5 Las Vegas, WYAH 27 Portsmouth/Norfolk VA (Pat RObertson's station by the way ironically had a very strong lineup of syndicated shows by 1975, in fact it was a better station than a few larger market indies), 11 KMSB Tucson, 26 WGNO New Orleans, 21 KMPH Fresno, and a few others were pretty strong stations as indies in their respective markets.

In markets that small with only one independent, you would have thought more shows were available because there were fewer stations fighting for programming. In most cases independent stations in smaller markets were strong because of less competition. Three network affiliates with 14 hour a day network schedules had little room for alot of shows.

Actually with cable, WTBS/WTCG indeed was carried and I believe Pat Robertson's WANX was also carried so with two imported stations, cable subscribers had little use for channel 61. Still, those with antennas would still be served. TV 61 did get a bit better late in 1981 and slightly improved once again in 1982. In 1983, the station finally became viable.

Keep in mind that those other stations were owned by groups or individuals who were well capitalized -- in particular, KVVU 5 was owned by Johnny Carson and WYAH 27 by CBN. Channel 11 in Tucson was KZAZ at the time, and was owned by Roadrunner Broadcasting -- a group well enough capitalized to offer $6 million to the Clover Park School District for the license to KCPQ/13 in Tacoma. KMPH 26 (not 21) had the advantage of being in an all-UHF market, and WGNO 26 was in a much larger market (New Orleans was barely outside the top 30 in the late 70s).

I can't know for sure, but I strongly suspect that the owners of WRIP 61 just didn't have a lot of money to invest in that station, so they had to build it very, very slowly. And the result was a station with a very weak lineup for its first decade or so of existence.

Another station that apparently had a tight operating budget in its early years was WDRB 41 in Louisville -- some months back, a schedule was posted here for that station that showed that they weren't signing on until 3 PM on weekdays in the late seventies. Still, they certainly managed to build a successful station from that rather humble beginning.

"The Eyes of Texas" was produced by KPRC Houston and syndicated to some markets in Texas. After an absence of about 20 years, TEoT returned to KPRC recently with monthly one-hour specials (couldn't tell you who hosts it now, since I avoid KPRC like the plague). Reruns of the original show air under the name "Ray Miller's Texas" (or something similar) on PBS in Houston.

"4/8 Country Reporter" is now "Texas Country Reporter", syndicated in Texas (at odd hours in some places) and on RFD-TV.

While it is true that Pat Robertson's WYAH-TV did have a strong line-up in the mid 70s of syndicated programming (though WYAH was 100% religious on Sundays). Pat still was quite picky in deciding which shows he wanted to air on WYAH such as NO to "All In the Family", "Good Times" or even "Love, American Style"..much less Benny Hill. Come to think of it I don't think WYAH even aired "MASH" back then. Anyway because of Pat's actions..this more/less led the way for Norfolk to get its second independent station in the 70's..that being WTVZ channel 33 which signed on the air in 1979.

You're right; TV 27 did not have shows like MASH or All In The Family. Those shows in many markets were on NBC, ABC, or CBS affiliates. They were about 90 % Christian on Sunday, with the other 10 % or so being public affairs non religious shows. But this was only until September of 1980. Beginning then, WYAH was Christian until Noon and secular from Noon to about 7 PM.

Some thought this was because of Channel 33's sign on, but sister stations in Dallas, Atlanta, and Boston also began secular shows for about 7 hours on Sundays as well, so this practice ended company wide. Actually by 1983, WYAH was secular by 10 AM on Sunday.

Robertson was picky about what was run, but not unusually different from most stations. Shows like Flintstones, Brady Bunch, Gilligan's Island, Munsters, Star Trek, Bugs Bunny, Little Rascals, I Love Lucy, Leave It To Beaver, and many others ran on the station.

They never ran the shows you mentioned but did run The Jeffersons from 1981 to the 90's (they were CBN owned until 1989), WKRP In Cincinnati from 1982 to the early 90's, What's Happening (similar to Good Times in scope so I believe they did not run Good Times because they were outbidded for that show) by 1985, Barney Miller, and a few others. The only unusual thing on TV 27 was the fact they were all religious Sundays only.

The interesting thing about Pat Robertson's decision about adding secular programming to WYAH in the early 70's was that the decision was the key reason why Jim Bakker would leave WYAH/CBN to go on to form the PTL Club/Heritage USA as Bakker felt that WYAH should stay all religious all the time and not "go Hollywood" which in itself is very ironic considering the number of "Hollywood stars" who had appeared with the Bakker on PTL not too mention the couple was very friendly with the Hollywood jet set as well (for example Jim & Tammy Faye Bakker for years were very good friends with Sonny & Cher, before and after the Bonos had divorced).

I can remember when WYAH had aired " WKRP" and "The Jeffersons" At the time I was confused not to mention surprised..thinking "This is owned by CBN ?" But looking back now..ah yeah..its all about the money. Even though I may not agree with Pat Robertson's politics, I have to admit he was a clever businessman. Despite CBN being "Christian owned", by mixing in secular programming with religious content..Pat was able to get a TON of cash for his stations and CBN Cable Network not too mention breaking the image to viewers of being "The God Channel", no more different than TBN. Had he kept all of his stations and CBN Network totally religious 24/7 chances are he would had to settle for far less money when he would sell them not too mention it would be difficult for a new owner to transform a channel that was all religion to an all secular one. Not impossible of course but it can be difficult.

Though before the Bakkers formed PTL, they helped established TBN with the Crouches in the early-1970s, before they parted ways and the Bakkers struck on their own.

IIRC, "Love, Sidney" aired on both WAVY Norfolk (Robertson's bailiwick) and WSLR Roanoke (Falwell's).

I think the decision to downplay the gay angle and make Sidney more of a lonely middle-aged guy was the result of audience feedback from places other than Virginia; like, perhaps, the other 49 states.

Although "Sidney" wasn't a terrible show, I still think the best post-"Odd Couple" work Randall did was "The Tony Randall Show" (1976-78), where he played an acerbic judge. Definitely worth searching out.

While I do agree with you , unfortunately Virginia will always get the rap only because the state IS the home of Pat Robertson and Liberty University (Jerry Falwell's people), so whenever a show gets pre-empted (which of course wasn't the case of Love, Sidney") or a rock song doesn't get played on the radio within Virginia (or even outside Virginia) many people are quick to jump the gun and assume right off the bat that Robertson and/or Liberty was behind it . And this sort of thing continues way beyond TV & radio too such as the decision by Southwest Airlines last summer to discontinue non-stop flights from Norfolk to Las Vegas and the airline's decision to not offer non-stop flights to its Denver hub from Norfolk..why many folks around Hampton Roads really believed that Pat Roberston had put pressure on Southwest and Norfolk International Airport to stop the flights because Pat felt that Las Vegas and Denver were "cities full of sinful behavior and the people who live there will burn in hell". Some of this crap actually made it to the Norfolk Virginian Pilot forums some months back until the newspaper did the wise thing and deleted the thread.

WKCH Channel 43 apparently had not started at that point

No, channel 43 didn't come into being until January 1984. And it was at least a month after their debut in January 1984 before the local cable companies picked them up (their again, the cable companies that serves Knoxville area have also under gone various name changes). I don't remember what their first call letters were, but they have had several over the course of their existence.

I remember when channel 10 aired the 3-D movie "Gorilla At Large". You had to go to McDonald's to purchase the 3-D glasses in order to view the movie in 3-D, with all the proceeds going to MDA. Channel 10 was the home to the Jerry Lewis MDA Labor Day Telethon at the time.

Actually Jim Bakker and Tammy left CBN and TV 27 in the late winter of 1973 right after the station expanded from signing on at 2 pm and off by Midnight to signing on at 10 am and off at 1 am. Until then they were 700 Club from night before at 2 pm, a mix of family dramas and comedies till 5, Bugs Bunny at 5, New Zoo Revue at 530, Jim & Tammy at 6, a couple secular shows at 7, Christian shows at 8, and 700 Club live at 11. When they expanded to a 10 am sign on shows like Beaver, Flipper, Lassie, Fury, Roy Rogers, Bugs Bunny, and a couple others were joined by Popeye, Little Rascals, Dennis The Menace, Gilligan's Island, Father Knows Best, Riflemen, and a few others as well as a few hundred old movies. The GM decided at the time to only have Jim & Tammy do a weekend show and host the kids shows, and put Gilligan's Island and another sitcom on at 6 pm weeknights. Bakker insisted on remaining on his timeslot. Pat Robertson refused to override the decision and agreed to move the station into a general entertainment format and an expanded broadcast day. The Fall of 73 shows like Flintstones, Star Trek, Dick Van Dyke, Hogan's Heroes, Get Smart, Yogi Bear, and a bunch of others were added and the station began 630 AM sign on with cartoons till 9, sitcoms till 10, 700 Club now live at 10 AM not PM, New Zoo Revue at noon, westerns till 230, cartoons till 5, sitcoms till 7, drama shows till 9, 700 Club at 9 PM, and a mix of old movies and drama shows late at night. By 1976, WYAH had Brady Bunch, Odd Couple, I Love Lucy, and eventually Tom & Jerry. Bakker felt that an expanded broadcast day should mean more time for his show, not less. He and Tammy went to California and joined Paul Crouch to launch TBN in March of 1973.

How he began PTL was another story. Ted Turner's 36 WRET Charlotte had been signing on at noon. Turner wanted to add a morning cartoon block so he did from 7 to 9 am. because mid mornings were a hard sell, he sold the 9 am slot to Pat Robertson for his 700 Club, and filled remaining time with public affairs shows till noon. This began around 1971. Movies aired at noon, comedy shows till 3, cartoons till 5, comedy shows till 7, drama shows till 9, a movie at 9, and a mix of drama shows and movies late night till about 1 or 2 AM when the station signed off. Turner had 17 WTCG Atlanta (now WPCH eventually WTBS). That station focused on movies, sitcoms, drama shows, and cartoons and was on the air about 20 hours a day. Meanwhile CBN signed on Channel 46 WHAE in 1971. That station was on the air 4 hours a day with only Christian programming. By 1972 the station was on the air 6 hours a day with an hour of secular shows (Fury and Of Land & Seas), and Christian the rest of the day. Turner had no problem with this. Robertson swore he had no plans to change formats on WHAE. Meanwhile TV 27 WYAH was evolving into a full blown independent station and completed the transition in Fall of 1973. In Dallas CBN had a 6 hour a day station on TV 33. A secular station across town on TV 39 was donated to CBN with programming included in 1973, of at which time 33 KXTX moved to TV 39 and combined assets and also became a full time independent that fall. Still as late as 1974, 46 WHAE Atlanta was still only on the air 7 hours a day with Christian shows over 5 hours a day. That Fall, though WHAE expanded to 14 hours a day with Secular shows 8 hours a day from noon to 8. Ted Turner was livid. He claimed Atlanta could only support one independent station and his WTCG was making only modest money and with 46 competing, Channel 17 would lose money. Out of Anger, he dumped the 700 Club in Charlotte and reverted 36 WRET to an 11 AM sign on again dumping the morning cartoons at least temporarily. Turner needed a show to replace 700 Club to resume 6 AM sign on so in the fall of 74 he approached Jim Bakker and offered to give him the time in return for a percentage of his donations. Jim & Tammy bakker left TBN fall of 1974. Turner would lend Jim Bakker a studio at WRET Charlotte and in the late fall of 1974 PTL Club was born. Bakker eventually raised enough money to get his own studio and more in a couple years. So PTL began as a result of Ted Turner dumping 700 Club on his WRET 36. WRET incidentally got NBC affiliation in 1978 when WSOC dumped NBC for ABC. 18 WCCB lost ABC and was left an independent and took 700 Club and some of WRET's shows. Turner sold WRET to Westinghouse and the station became WPCQ in 1980 to fund CNN. TV 36 was sold to renaissance in 1987 and to Providence Journal in 1990 and renamed WCNC, then sold to Belo, there merged with gannett.

Going way back to the beginning of the thread, I hadn't realized until this past weekend that Bob Braun's 50-50 Club aired on WBIR. One-time 50-50 Club cast member Rob Reider is now a renowned air show announcer, and he was here (and on WBIR) for last weekend's Smoky Mountain Air Show.

That's very interesting, given that Ted Turner is reputedly a man who is hostile to Christianity in particular, and organized religion in general. Stuart Varney tells some awful tales of personal abuse he took from Turner for his Christian beliefs while working at CNN.

I would also like to see some listings from WINT-TV 20 (and before that, WCPT-TV 55) from Crossville, TN, near Knoxville.

Money talks!

If I may over here (I'm actually pretty new here, remember, and I was directed to this subforum), could someone post any TV listings for Knoxville from anywhere between 1992 and 1996? Thanks!

Please post listings for Saturday 8/28/1982 and Sunday 8/29/1982.

Wow, if you had cable in Pittsburgh back then you could watch The Flintstones five times a day on three different channels.

WJAC 6 - The Electric Company (Can't be the popular PBS series on an NBC affiliate, can it ??)

WSTV 9 - CBS Morning News over Good Morning America (Ypu would think that with CBS struggling to put on a decent morning show & GMA being #1 that WSTV would've gone with GMA @ 7:00 AM. I wonder what prevented them from doing so)

It's also worth noting that WSTV would eventually drop BOTH CBS & ABC & become an NBC affiliate

Cheers & 73

Not yet mentioned: at this time, KDKA was not clearing "As the World Turns." Huh?

--Russell

What "Match Game" did KDKA carry? The CBS version went off the air a few weeks previous (April 20 was its last day on the air).

Especially if PBS was served in that area by Penn State's WPSX, Channel 3(now WPSU).

I remember KDKA for awhile airing the PBS series Villa Alegre (sort of a Spanish Sesame Street).

It aired concurrently on WQED.

Note: [B/W] means program aired in black and white (only those marked by the paper; several other shows were probably in B&W as well)

WQED (PBS 13 Pittsburgh) (missing some slots)

WQED ran instructional programming between 12 and 3. Programs that were meant to be viewed in school classrooms. They were generally not listed in the newspaper.

Exact same show as Captain Chesapeake, produced at sister station WBFF in Baltimore. Only the name of the Captain and certain local segments were changed.

WPCB (IND 40 Greensburg)

While licensed to Greensburg, station was never actually there.

Both studios and tower are located in Wall Borough, about 10 miles east of Pittsburgh.

In later years the station ID'd "Greensburg-Pittsburgh"

"Dressed to Kill." (1980) When Liz Blake (Nancy Allen), a prostitute, sees a mysterious woman brutally slay homemaker Kate Miller (Angie Dickinson), she finds herself trapped in a dangerous situation. While the police think Liz is the murderer, the real killer wants to silence the crime's only witness. Only Kate's inventor son, Peter (Keith Gordon), believes Liz. Peter and Liz team up to find the real culprit, who has an unexpected means of hiding her identity and an even more surprising motivation to kill.
